

Class of 2015
 Erin Austad, M.D.	Hometown: Minneapolis, MN Undergrad: Boston College Medical School: University of Minnesota Medical Interest: Community EM and pediatrics Interests/Hobbies: Hanging out with my puppy, wining and dining at the amazing restaurants around the city, cooking, and spending time with family and friends	Why HCMC? HCMC is a great program with endless pathology, procedural opportunities, and ethnic diversity.
 Luke Helland, M.D.	Hometown: Glasgow, MT Undergrad: Embry-Riddle Aeronautical University Medical School: University of Colorado School of Medicine Medical Interest: Rural EM, wilderness Interests/Hobbies: Cycling, climbing, backcountry skiing, anything outdoors	Why HCMC? I want to be prepared to handle anything that walks through my doors at 3am in a community hospital with limited resources.
 Benjamin Jones, M.D.	Hometown: Moscow, ID Undergrad: Portland Community College Medical School: Oregon Health and Science University School of Medicine Medical Interest: Sick people Interests/Hobbies: Basketball, skiing, rap, and travel.	Why HCMC? I was just unbelievably impressed when I did a rotation here as a med student. Some of the top, most ground-breaking faculty in Emergency Medicine are here and have been here for some time. Remarkably, these same faculty tend to be some of the most approachable, down-to-earth people you will ever meet. Their approach to training residents is well-honed...I truly believe it would be impossible to complete this program and NOT be an amazing EM physician. Additionally, I have to say how much I love our patient population. I like to describe them as being the perfect combination of "county hospital sick" and "Minnesota nice."

 Kate Jacoby, M.D.	Hometown: Owatonna, MN Undergrad: University of Minnesota Duluth Medical School: University of Minnesota Medical School Medical Interest: Education and global health Interests/Hobbies: Dancing, teaching fitness classes, spending time with my kids	Why HCMC? HCMC is an amazing program with faculty who want to teach in an awesome city. The patient population is urban and under-served which was important to me. The patient volume, breadth of pathology, and experiences are hard to match.
 Melissa "Mo" Knight, M.D.	Hometown: Tampa, FL Undergrad: University of Colorado-Boulder Medical School: University of Miami (Miami of Florida, not Miami of Ohio) Medical Interest: International medicine, ultrasound Interests/Hobbies: Camping, backpacking, hiking, snowboarding, music. Guilty pleasures include watching trash TV like Survivor and Real Housewives (shameful I know)	Why HCMC? I chose HCMC because it is a high volume crazy county hospital. We have great staff and are well respected in the hospital. We run all of our own STAB cases, get every airway, all procedures. If you can handle HCMC you can handle almost any ED.
 Rebecca Kornas, M.D.	Hometown: Grand Blanc, MI Undergrad: Michigan State University Medical School: Wayne State University School of Medicine Medical Interest: Ultrasound, pediatrics, toxicology, medical education Interests/Hobbies: Biking, reading, restaurant exploring, basketball, hiking, playing with my golden retriever, walking around the lakes with my husband, experiencing the breweries and state parks of Minnesota	Why HCMC? Liberty Caroon and the stellar ultrasound experience at Hennepin, the commitment to academics, the teaching opportunities as "Pit Boss," the dedicated faculty, the Twin Cities, and generally the gut feeling I had about the program and the residents I met here.
 Evan McKay, M.D.	Hometown: Red Wing, MN Undergrad: Gonzaga University Medical School: University of Minnesota Medical School Medical Interest: Critical care, education Interests/Hobbies: cooking (eating), yoga, spending time with my family, any of the high-quality programming on Bravo	Why HCMC? The attendings! As a medical student rotating at HCMC I was impressed with the faculty, the amount of bedside teaching and how proficient the residents were. The fact that Minneapolis is a great place to live was also a perk.
 Dave Roy, M.D.	Hometown: Circle Pines, MN Undergrad: University of Minnesota Medical School: University of Minnesota Medical School Medical Interest: Critical care Interests/Hobbies: Food, travel, camping, hunting, fishing, TV, beer (brewing and consumption), general man stuff	Why HCMC? Great faculty, long history, prestige, hardcore county population with strong academic/research prowess.

 Jeremy Taliercio, M.D.	Hometown: Goodrich, MI Undergrad: Oakland University Medical School: Wayne State University Medical Interest: Ultrasound Interests/Hobbies: Snowboarding, cycling, cooking, carpentry	Why HCMC? Hands down, this is the best EM program. We have great teaching, unbelievable patient population and an incredible city.
 Blair Woodbury, M.D.	Hometown: Littleton, CO Undergrad: Colorado College Medical School: University of Colorado School of Medicine Medical Interest: Ultrasound Interests/Hobbies: Running, reading, and K dramas	Why HCMC? I wanted to learn how to practice the Emergency Medicine of the future.
 Aileen Yew Haung, M.D.	Hometown: Plymouth, MN Undergrad: University of California Los Angeles Medical School: University of Minnesota Medical School Medical Interest: Ultrasound Interests/Hobbies: Anything artsy and crafty, everything on HGTV, makeup!, eating at great restaurants, scootering around the twin cities, running, movies, fun reading	Why HCMC? I rotated as a student here and loved it. Faculty are awesome and very well known. Also, you get tons of procedures here and a lot of leadership and autonomy as a third year resident.
